care noy the Reconstruction Committee in regard to Virginia and the two Carolinas, was to-day reported in the House by Mr. Conkling, and ordered to be printed.

The delay in reporting it was caused by the absence of Senator Howard, before whom all of it was taken. More than sixty witnesses were examined by Senator Howard in relation to the condition of affairs in Virginia, North and South Carolina. Some few witnesses were examined by him in relation to other Southern States, but their testimony was reported with that of the States to which it applied.

Among the more important of the witnesses examined in relation to Virginia, were Judge Underwood, who has been elected United States Senator from that State, but who has not yet been admitted to a seat, Mr. Lewis McKenzie, who is in the same position in regard to the House of Representatives, General Turner, commanding post at Richmond, Major General Terry, in command of the department, and Colorado Brown, Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, stationed at Richmond; also, half a dozen of Virginia loyalists, including John Minor Botts, Charles D. Gray, of Augusta county; John F. Lewis, of Rockingham county, and his brother, C. H. Lewis, late secretary of the Commonwwealth, General R. E. Lee, of the robel army, and Brigadier General M. D. Care, of the same; five members of the Virginia Legislature, namely: John B. Baldwin, Speaker of the House of Delegates; William J. Jaynes, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and R. B. Grattan, with Dale Carter and E. G. Keen, members of the State Senate, the latter formerly a Colonel in the rebel army; the Rev. Dr. McMurdy, rector of Christ Church, Alezandria, Virginia; Rev. James W. Hunicutt, of Fredericksburg. Seven colored men, including a minister and doctor, were examined.

The witness whose testimony will be, perhaps, the most eagerly sought for, is General Lec. It is telegraphed in full. He represents that nothing like a sentiment of hostility to the United States Government exists in Virginia; that there are es having that end in view; that the people, though disappointed and saddened by the result of the war, accept that result sub-missively, and are now only looking to their material interests, and that the surest and speediest means of reconciling the people to the Government, and making them its cordia the Government, and making them its cordial supporters, is to extend to them equal political rights with the people of other states.

As to the negroes he expressed the belief which he says he has always entertained that the State would be much better without them, and he repudiates the idea that cruelties were purposely inflicted on Federal prisoners of

The testimony of a number of Virginia gentlemen who had come as a delegation to President Johnson was equally important and interesting; they concur in the opinion as to the complete absence of any feeling looking to a renewal of the contest with the Government. The question of corrects that to a renewal of the contest with the Government. The question of coercion they say was settled by the sword, and the people are content to abide by the decision, and to live henceforth faithful citizens of the Republic. They represent the feeling of the people at large and of themselves as unalterably opposed to the idea of extending political rights.

The legislature are engaged in removing the most, if not all, the obnoxious discriminations in law between the whites and blacks.

VETO OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL. The President's Message Vetoing the Civil Bights Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 27.

To the Senate of the United States: I regret that the bill which has passed both houses of Congress, entitled "an act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights and furnish means of their vindication," contains provisions which I can not approve consistently with my sense of duty to the whole people, and my obligations to the Constitution of the United States. I am, therefore, constrained to return it to the Senate and the House, in which it originated, with my objections to its becoming a law. By the first section of the bill, all persons born in the United States, not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are declared to be citizens of the United States. A committee composed of prominent citizens of Chattanooga, Tennessee, left that city Pacific States; Indians subject to taxation; yesterday for Cincinnati, to confer with the board of trade on matters appertaining to the construction of a railroad between the two negroes, mulattoes, and persons of African blood. I do not say that this bill repeals State laws distrust and alarm on the part of all the States, on the subject of marriage between the two races, for as the whites are ferbidden to intermarry with blacks, the blacks can only make such contracts as the whites themselves are such contracts as the whites themselves are allowed to make, and therefore can not under this bill, enter into the marriage contract with the whites. I cite this, however, as an instance of the State policy as to discrimination, to inquire whether Congress can abrogate all State laws; of discrimination between the two races in the matters of real estate, of suits, and Congress may aloropeat the State laws as to the contract of marriage between the races. Hitherto every subject embraced in the bill has been considered as exclusively belonging to the States, and, also, that they all relate to the policy and economy of the respective States. They are matters which in each State concern the domestic condition of its people, varying in each according to its own peculiar circumstances and the safety and well being of its own citizens. I do not mean to say that upon all those subjects there are not Federal restraints, as for instance in the State power of legislation over contracts, there is a Federal limitation that no State shall pass a law imposing the obligations of contracts, and as to crimes that no State shall have an expost facto law, and as to money, that no State shall make any thing but gold and silver a legal tender. He was surprised that the West had been askep so long, and permitted herself to be held in such a manner by Eastern capitalists, when, with a little energy, the operatives could be brought here. In New England, if you told a man that we possessed fine beds of coal, he would laugh and say that he thought we were all an agricultural people, that coal and corn could not exist together. Nature intended this for a great manufacturing State, etc. Take Your Position. union or disunion is distinctly presented. Every man must now make his choice as to the side on which he will range himself.

Johnson, and his supporters, take the position that secession failed to take the Southern States out of the Union; that these States are alive, either because they never died, or if can be transported from the East here. We they did, that they have risen from the dead, | can have as cheap labor as New England, and cheaper bread. And we have got the motive alive, they have all the time been, and hence are now fully equipped States in the Union, formed of the United States. In short, the position of Johnson is, that the Southern States are States in the Union. This is his position. It is not taken upon previous precedents, and decisions upon constitutional, or public law, because there are none applicable. It is an ew case. Ours was the first constitutional republic; and, though the Abolitionists had long been laboring to break it up, they had never before succeeded in placing it in its present undefined condition. The case is to be decided by natural reason, influenced by risen in the Union in which, whether dead or cheaper bread. And we have got the motive present undefined condition. The case is to be decided by natural reason, influenced by considerations of policy and consequences. Thus proceeding, JOHNSON says, secession failed; says it will not do to acknowledge it successful; the States, therefore, did not get out of the Union. They are not dead, because you can actually see their houses, cities and various improvements; there are the people, living, breathing, acting; there are their governors, legislators, judges, etc.; the territories are their governors, legislators, judges, etc.; the territories are their enterthing or courts, siting in them; there are our courts, postmasters, revenue officers, etc.; if those States are notwithin the United States, or are dead, we had better withdraw our courts, postmasters, revenue officers, etc.; if those States are notwithin the death of States y attempted secession, otherwise all the States might die and the Union end by natural death. This point being taken, then, as granted, or established, that the Southern States are States in the Union, what follows, as the logical consequences? Why, that they are in, under the Constitution, like all other States. We have present undefined condition. The case is to eign trade. This is just what we want; and, be decided by natural reason, influenced by we repeat, that the most certain method of tinction between States; it operates alike on all States in the Union. What are the rights of States in the Union? Some of them are as follows: 1. They have each a right to two Senators in Congress, which Senators, the legislatures of the States have severally the right to elect. And the Congress at Washington has no constitutional power or right to say that the States shall not be represented in Congress by Senators; the only power over the subject is possessed by the Senate, and is simply a power to determine whether the particular men elected possess the qualifications required by Constitution, like all other States. We have

3. The people of the several States have the sole power of deciding who shall elect the representatives to Congress; whether they shall be elected by whites, negroes, male or temale, loyal or rebel; it is all with the States; this is so with Indiana; it is so with all the States; and this talk in the North about whether negroes or rebels shall vote in the Southern States, now in the Union, under the

Such being the theory of JOHNSON on the political and constitutional status, only one thing remains to be done to restore our old Union, and render us again a united republic, great glorious and prosperous, forcible resistance to the Government having ceased, and that thing is a very small and easy one in act, but great in consequences, viz: admit the Southern representation to its legally due seats in Congress. That is all, and we are a nation again of brothers. JOHNSON wants this thing done. It is now the great absorbing political issue. Who, with JOHNSON, wants this thing done? Who wants union of these States? Let him march to the Union ranks and take posi-

Now for the other side, the Republican side, in opposition to the President. This is the disunion side. The Republicans, like the President, have assumed a theory as to the constitutional and political status of the country. They have not taken it upon precedent, nor general principles of public law, because they are none applicable to the whole facts of our case. They assumed their fundamental principle with reference to its logical consequences which they desired to see followed out in action. They assume, therefore, that the Southern States are out of the Union by death or secession. The starting point is that they are out of the Union. This determined, the logical consequence follows that they are within the absolute power of Congress as conquered territory. Hence, Congress as conquered territory. Hence, Congress can make them what it pleases; nigger governments or what not, and admit them into the Union again when she pleases, (provided at that time the South should feel disposed to come in.) Now, admit the premise, the leading proposition of the Republicans, that the Southern States are out of the Union, and the Republicans are right in the logical consequences, because if they are none applicable to the whole facts right in the logical consequences, because if the Southern States are out of the United States, are foreign regions, they are out from under the protection of the Constitution, and,

We rejoice in this veto. It shows that the President is determined to stand by what he believes to be the Constitution; and, further, that he is going to fight it out on that line. We rejoice in it further because of the effect it will have in defining his position toward the Republican party. Are JOHNSON and the Republican party. Are JOHNSON and the Republican party is there no difference between them? If so, why does JOHNSON veto all their bills, and why do the Republicans oppose his restoration policy? Which is Republicanism? The Congress bills, or the President's vetoes? JOHNSON's restoration policy? The same of faxation to be adopted by the General Government.

The tariff system of faxation operates upon individuals and the communsty. It is a tax upon the consumption of the country. It taxes nearly everything we eat, drink and wer. Under the tariff system, the man who supports himself by his daily labor pays as much as the rich man, because he consumes as much. from the New York Evening Post: It seems to us that these are mere childish fears. Just now, in Ireland, the English have forbidden the wearing of a shamrock and the launting of Irish emblems. But suppose they had said, "Put out your emblems, cover yourselves with shamrock," would they have not done much more to allay irritation? And suppose that they had added: "You Irish shall be, in every respect, as free as we are; you shall not pay for our churches and priests; you shall not be any longer subject to the mismanagement which has driven three millions of you to America. But you must keep the peace." Would not that have been wiser and more effective than to cram loyalty down their

The old method of suppression has been often tried, and has always failed. Let us try under the protection of the Constitution, and, of course, are at the mercy of Congress.

We are informed that the remains of a murdered man were found a few days since in the vicinity of Camden, Jackson township, Carroll county, about twenty-five miles from this city. The body had evidently been lying where it was discovered for several weeks, and was badly decomposed. An investigation proved the decease to have been a cattle buyer from Cincinnati, who was known to have a large amount of money in his possession, and from Cincinnati, who was known to have a large amount of money in his possession, and who disappeared from thot locality about three weeks before. Having had occasion to pay out a sum of money, and not having the necessary amount in his pocket book, he was seen to take the balance out of a belt around his body, the sight of which doubtless excited the cupidity of those who committed the murder. We are unable to learn the name of the unfortunate man, nor as to where there is any suspicion as to who were the guilty parties.

the only one who was buried deep enough to prevent the rains from washing the dirt away and exposing the bones. He, it is said, was burien under the immediate supervision of General Rosecrans.

In the northwestern angle formed by the crossing of the railroads, from Corinth out to and beyond the outer line of works, three and a half miles distant, the whole of this great buttle field is dotted here and there in some battle field is dotted, here and there—in some places thick as meadow mole hills—with the graves of federal, and the exposed remains of confederate dead. The confederate dead, it clearly appears, were merely covered up on the ground where they fell. The federal dead were all neatly interred, in the usual way, with head and footboards in every instance, and in most cases, I believe, were inclosed with wooden palings. I saw but one federal grave where the bones were at all exposed. I saw but one confederate tumulus where the bones, battle field is dotted, here and there-in but one confederate tumulus where the bones, generally the skulls, were not more or less ex-

In front of the outer breastworks, not far from the same spot, I saw two tumuli, where some six or eight confederate dead had been covered up on the side of a hill. Here several of the skulls and the feet of most of the bodies had been to the same and the feet of the several of the skulls and the feet of most of the bodies the same right to us, that you shall keep the peace, obey and enforce the laws, and protect all others in the rights which you demand for yourselves." We believe there is common sense enough among the southern people, and statesmanship enough among their leading men, to accept and fulfil these conditions, and where they find it difficult at the moment, to receive kindly the assistance of the general government. And if there is not, we are strong enough to enforce these simple rights, and we are bound to do so with the utmost vigilance.

HISTORY OF THE WAR—"THE AMERICAN CONFLICT."—This work will be completed at the carliest day on which an authentic history of the war can be prepared, and will contain an amount of important, accurate information from rebel sources beyond any thing attempted by other writers. Its great superiority is everywhere recognized, even by the author's most decided political opponents. Thousands of purchasers of the numerous inferior publications have already laid them aside as unreliable and worthless, and secured this work, which is rapidly superseding all others.
CAUTION.—Various unscrupulous attempts have been made to confound with Mr. Greely's History vastly inferior productions, by advertising them as histories of the "American Conflict," and by copying our descriptions of this elaborate work, which become absurd and ridiculous
when applied to that ephemeral class of "war histories" advertised as "mow ready," "complete in one volume,"

Diseases, in all their species, stages, ramifications and phases.

Dr. Wm. Thomson will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Dr. Wm. Thomson has made the treatment of Private Diseases a specialty since the year 1851—three years in the city of Buffalo, New York, eight years in Chicago, Illinois, and two years in Peoria, Illinois. During eight years practice in Chicago, Illinois, he cured over thirteen thousand cases.

Dr. Wm. Thomson, in his practice for Scrofula, Rheumatic and general diseases of the blood, uses a Fumigating Vapor dath of the most ingenious kind, in conjunction with internal treatment.
